Administrative Information

Provenance

Beginning in 1953, and continuing until 1967, Leonard Bernstein gave many of his most significant music manuscripts to the Library of Congress; between 1965 and 1983, Bernstein gave 104 scrapbooks to the Library (five additional scrapbooks were given by Brandeis University in 1973). Other sources of material: Helen Coates, Bernstein's longtime friend and secretary, left Bernstein related items to the Library in her will (received in 1991); 1991 and 1993 gifts of the Springate Corporation (representatives of the Bernstein estate); in 1997, Burton Bernstein, brother of Leonard Bernstein, gave the Library ninety-five additional items to add to the Bernstein Collection, originally from their mother's apartment.

Custodial History

Beginning in 1953, and continuing until 1967, Leonard Bernstein gave many of his most significant music manuscripts to the Library of Congress, including: The Age of Anxiety (Symphony No. 2), Candide, Chichester Psalms, Fancy Free, Jeremiah (Symphony No. 1), On the Waterfront, Prelude, Fugue and Riffs, Serenade after Plato's "Symposium", Trouble in Tahiti, West Side Story, and Wonderful Town. Between 1965 and 1983, Bernstein gave 104 scrapbooks to the Library (five additional scrapbooks were given by Brandeis University in 1973).

Helen Coates, Bernstein's longtime friend and secretary, left ninety-four letters, music manuscripts and other Bernstein related items to the Library of Congress in her will. The Library received the items in 1991. An additional 600 letters, which had been in the possession of Helen Coates, were also given to the Library by the Springate Corporation in 1991.

In 1993, the Springate Corporation, representatives of the Bernstein estate, increased the size of the Bernstein Collection many times over by giving to the Library hundreds of thousands of additional items. This included, not only additional music manuscripts, but correspondence, writings of all types, photographs, commercial and non-commercial recordings and audio-visual materials (now housed in the Library of Congress Motion Picture, Broadcasting and Recorded Sound Division), business papers, programs, fan mail, date books, realia, and other less common items. In addition to Bernstein's personal business papers, the extensive archives for his corporate identity, Amberson Inc., were also part of the gift.

In 1997, Burton Bernstein, brother of Leonard Bernstein, gave the Library of Congress ninety-five additional items to add to the Bernstein Collection. Originally from Jennie Bernstein's apartment, and consisting primarily of letters to their parents; including fifty-two from Leonard Bernstein, one from Felicia Bernstein, one from Aaron Copland and four from Helen Coates.

Transfers

Commercial and non-commercial recordings and other audiovisual materials from the Leonard Bernstein Collection have been transferred to the Library of Congress Motion Picture, Broadcasting and Recorded Sound Division.

Copyright Status

Materials from the Leonard Bernstein Collection are governed by the Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17, U.S.C.) and other applicable international copyright laws.

Access and Restrictions

The contents of the Leonard Bernstein Collection is available for examination and study in the Library of Congress Performing Arts Reading Room. Materials in this collection may not be copied without the written permission of the copyright owner--usually the author or his or her heirs. The user is advised that permission to copy may not imply permission for other uses, including performing, recording and publishing. Consult a reference librarian in the Library of Congress Music Division for further permission information. As of this writing, requests for permission to copy music, prose and letters written by Leonard Bernstein should be directed to Marie Carter, Vice President of Licensing and Publishing, The Leonard Bernstein Office, Inc., 121 West 27th St., Suite 1104, New York, NY 10001, TEL (212) 315-0640 ext 125, FAX (212) 315-0643. Ms. Carter will also forward to the appropriate parties requests to copy letters written by Felicia Bernstein, Sam Bernstein, Jennie Bernstein, Jamie Bernstein Thomas, Alexander Bernstein, and Nina Bernstein.

Microfilm

All of the scrapbooks have been preserved on microfilm because of their fragile nature (Microfilm 99/20002 [MUS]).

Scope and Content Note

The Leonard Bernstein Collection is as exceptional a collection as its namesake would suggest. Bernstein, one of the most prominent figures in twentieth century American classical music, made his impact as a conductor, composer of classical and theater music, and as an educator through his books, conducting students at Tanglewood, and especially his various televised lecture series that helped define the potentials of that medium.

Bernstein came to national prominence virtually overnight with his last minute conducting debut with the New York Philharmonic, substituting for Bruno Walter on November 14, 1943. He was twenty-five. Because Bernstein was a national figure from the very beginning of his career, and because his friend and teacher, Helen Coates, became his secretary and "preserver of the flame" beginning in 1944, the Bernstein Collection is not only amazingly complete, but much of it is annotated by Miss Coates to an extraordinary degree. These factors combine to make the Leonard Bernstein Collection one of the most exceptional in the music division in the variety and scope of material it contains.

Both the construction of this finding aid and the processing of the collection are considered works in progress. Rather than wait until the entire collection is processed before making it available to researchers--our usual practice--we have decided to make each series available as it is completed. For access to the un-processed materials in the collection, written requests should be addressed to Head, Acquisitions and Processing Section, Music Division, Library of Congress, Washington DC 20540-4710. As each series is completed, an introduction to that material will be added at the beginning of the content list to that series.

Organization of the Leonard Bernstein Collection

The Leonard Bernstein Collection is organized in fourteen series:

- Correspondence, 1928-1994
- Writings, 1928-1991

- Datebooks, 1944-1990
- Schedules, 1983-1992
- Address Books and Message Books, 1988-1989
- Iconography
- Programs, 1925-1993
- Fan Mail, 1938-1990
- Press Materials, 1930-1994
- Business Papers, 1944-1994
- Scrapbooks, 1933-1987

Description of Series

Container	Series
BOX 1-67, 68 OV, 60A-60J	Correspondence, 1928-1994, undated

The correspondence in the Leonard Bernstein Collection consists of more than 17,500 individual items from over 3,300 individuals or organizations. All material from or relating to a correspondent is housed in its own folder(s) and arranged chronologically. Undated material is filed at the back. Each identifiable correspondent is indexed alphabetically in the finding aid along with the date range and the number of items in the folder(s). Unidentified correspondence is at the end. Most of the correspondence falls between the dates of 1932, the year of Bernstein's engagement of Helen Grace Coates as piano teacher at the age of 14, and 1990, the year of his death.

In addition to such standard items as letters, postcards, telegrams, and birthday and greeting cards, the correspondence also contains the occasional photograph, music manuscript, diary, appointment book, script, collection of poems, or art work (e.g., sketches). No attempt was made to indicate all the non-standard items where they occur, but on occasion a parenthetical note will be found regarding such novelties.

Most of Bernstein's individual correspondents are filed under their own names. However, some are filed under organizational or business names, or topics, e.g., Candide. These designations pre-date the Library of Congress Music Division's possession of the material. Some letters from prominent individuals were moved from the "fan mail" collection to "correspondence" prior to the presentation of the collection to the Library.

A significant amount of the correspondence includes Bernstein's responses to the letters he received. These typically appear in the form of handwritten or typed replies in the margins or on the backs of the letters received by Bernstein. The handwritten responses are either in Bernstein's hand or that of Helen Coates in her capacity as secretary. There is no indication in this finding aid where such responses occur. In some cases, however, Bernstein's actual outgoing letters--either originals, or photocopies--are present, either filed chronologically within the correspondence, or collected separately in their own folder. In both instances, parenthetical notes indicate the filing method (for example, Burton Bernstein, Felicia Bernstein, Helen Coates, Serge Koussevitzky). After Bernstein's death, Charlie Harmon and Harry Kraut contacted people likely to have received letters from Bernstein and requested photocopies of that correspondence. These photocopies are filed at the end of each correspondent's folder. The only clue to the location of these items in the correspondence is found by noting the date spans--as these items were solicited via a letter dated post-1990 (also included)--most date spans which exceed 1990 indicate the presence of photocopied Bernstein correspondence.

In addition, the Library included two other sets of material in the Correspondence: over 300 condolence letters sent to Bernstein after the death of his father, referenced under Bernstein, Samuel J.; and over 700 letters, referenced under Coates, Helen, primarily from Bernstein to Coates, but also from various other persons to Coates, from Coates to Bernstein, and from Bernstein to several other persons. In the case of Helen Coates, each of the correspondents found in her file is listed parenthetically following her name in the guide with cross-references listed under the correspondent. For Samuel Bernstein's condolence letters, no cross references are provided.

In December 2010, the Leonard Bernstein estate donated over 1800 additional pieces of personal correspondence to the Library of Congress. Though much of this material is intensely personal and had been previously sealed, the family felt that since Bernstein has been dead over twenty years, the research value of the correspondence outweighed most of the privacy concerns. This additional correspondence has been physically added to the end of the series in boxes 60A-J, but the names are arranged alphabetically and interfiled with the previous correspondence in the finding aid. The hundreds of letters from dozens of correspondents include 79 additional letters from Felicia Bernstein, 101 from Shirley Bernstein, 37 from Helen Coates, 39 from Aaron Copland, 150 from David Diamond, 67 from Martha Gellhorn, 15 from Lillian Hellman, and 78 from David Oppenheim.

Many other series in the collection contain correspondence. In fact, "Fan Mail" and the "Personal Business Papers" under the Business Papers series are almost entirely correspondence, but even "Photographs" and "Writings" contain a certain amount--although the letters in the former are primarily addressed to members of Bernstein's staff, and letters in the latter include drafts of letters by Bernstein, some of which were never sent, and originals of letters sent by Bernstein (some of which appear to have been retrieved for inclusion in his book Findings.)

Bernstein's family and staff were exceptional custodians of the correspondence prior to its coming to the Library and most of the organization and identification of materials was theirs. They have also always been responsive to questions that have come up during the course of our work, especially an attempt to identify as much of the unsigned, illegible, or sans surname signatures as possible. Special gratitude is due to Albert Tucker, who performed most of the work on the correspondence in the collection and prepared the following inventory.

Arranged alphabetically by correspondent or subject.

BOX 69-198 Writings, 1928-1991

The Writings series contains a diverse group of documents that reflect Bernstein's wide-ranging activities. Spanning 1928 to 1991 (when an article was published posthumously in the New York Times), these writings might be characterized as non-music manuscripts (although many items are typescripts as opposed to manuscripts, and some items--notably transcripts of interviews--were not really "written" at all).

The Writings series is divided into four subseries. The first, General Writings Chronology, includes the bulk of the writings, arranged in date order--by date of creation, publication, performance, presentation, or other approximate date. This is followed by the Television Scripts subseries which is further subdivided into the Young People's Concerts Television Scripts (arranged chronologically by air date); Bound Television Scripts; Television Scripts Collections--Notebooks; and TelePrompTer scripts. The final two subseries are Norton Lectures/The Unanswered Question and Book Materials. The Norton lectures include not only Bernstein's manuscript notes, draft scripts, and annotated typescripts, but also notes and outlines of others who helped prepare the lectures, research materials, television production materials, TelePrompTer scripts, and correspondence relating to the production and distribution of the lectures on video. The Book Materials include typescripts, musical examples, planning materials, correspondence with the publisher, and publisher's proofs. The contents within the various subseries are not exclusive. For example, the General Writings Chronology contains Norton lecture material, book materials and television scripts.

Where titles exist, they appear as the initial entry in the "Title/Description" field in this guide. Either in place of, or following, a title, but always in square brackets, is a description of the type of work represented--article, poem, lecture, etc.--including any information known about where or for what or whom items were created, published or presented, and often a brief topic description. Most descriptions are self-explanatory; one exception is "imaginary conversation," a term created by Bernstein to describe a particular type of article. The Writings series contains sketches and/or complete drafts for twelve imaginary conversations, of which, apparently, only three or four were published. This guide can most successfully be used by those able to access it by computer and do word searches. In that way, for instance, the fifteen writings with titles or descriptions that include "Mahler" can be found in a matter of seconds. Searching for "Tanglewood" will garner the researcher not only writings about Tanglewood, but writings on various topics presented at Tanglewood.

In terms of discrete works, the largest number of items in the Writings series is contained in the General Writings Chronology list; however, in terms of the amount of space required to house material, the various groupings are roughly proportionate. For example, while the total of 37 boxes of material described in the general listing represents hundreds of titles, the 39 boxes of Norton lectures material represent a total of six lectures. The Writings series includes notes, drafts, and completed works intended for presentation before a public readership or audience: music reviews and other articles; program and liner notes; speeches and statements; lectures; concert preview/explanatory scripts; TV scripts and other TV or radio commentary; books authored by Bernstein; introductions and prefaces to books by other authors; lyrics; etc.

The General Writings Chronology list also contains manuscripts or typescripts intended for more limited readerships: school and extra-curricular work while at Boston Latin School or Harvard College (short stories, essays, work assignments and exams, college thesis, music reviews); letters, birthday poems, memos, and recommendations, written for family, friends, colleagues, proteges, or staff; and poems and poem translations, crossword puzzles and games, a sleep record from January and February 1983, annotated texts or books, and marginal notes, written by Bernstein for his own use.

Some anomalies will be found in the Writings series, among which are the following: interviews; a Charlie Harmon phone list; a transcript of a speech by Joachim Kaiser at the bestowal of the Karl Amadeus Hartmann Medal on Bernstein in 1986; a list of Bernstein's copyrighted works; and a catalog for the Museum of Broadcasting's 1985 exhibition concerning Bernstein's television work. These maladapts are housed in the Writings series both because this was where they were filed prior to coming to the Library, and because they provide important direct (interviews) or indirect (Joachim Kaiser speech) testimony concerning Bernstein's life and how it touched the lives of others. Since this is what we hope the Writings series conveys anyway, it seems not unreasonable to accept a few black sheep within its fold.

A final caveat: because certain types of material are typically found in the Writings series, please do not assume that all such items in the collection are to be found here. One should, for example, also peruse the Amberson Business Papers subseries, which is known to contain, inter alia, interviews, recommendations, correspondence (personal), and speeches.

BOX 105-115, 161-176 Television Scripts

Contains the following subseries: Young People's Concerts Televsion Scripts, Bound Television Scripts, Television Scripts Collections--Notebooks, and TelePrompTer Scripts.

Holograph Music, 1935-1990

The holograph music in the Bernstein Collection represents the music written in Bernstein's hand, from sketches to fair copies. A separate series of music has not yet been fully described for inclusion in this finding aid, but is accessible on request. That series includes manuscripts in the hands of copyists and colleagues, photoreproductions (some of which are of Bernstein manuscripts), printed and published music. This material includes full scores and parts, and some of it includes edits and annotations in Bernstein's hand.

Much of the material came to us in envelopes that included substantive notes on the history of their contents and relationships between works. These notes had been prepared by Bernstein's musical assistants, Jack Gottlieb, Charlie Harmon, and others. To the degree possible, we transcribed this information and included it in the notes for each work. We assume, but cannot attest to its accuracy.

While this subseries is called holograph music, it does include other related materials such as notes, correspondence, and scripts that were included in the packages of music that we received. There are also occasional photocopies of manuscripts, particularly works where the originals were gifts to friends and family. Some complex works have been kept in groupings that were designated before we received them and may reflect various stages of sketches and versions of a work. Dybbuk is a good example. We have also attempted to include as many cross-references as possible, particularly for versions of works whose titles changed, and those that moved within multiple pieces.

Not all of Bernstein's holograph music manuscripts reside at the Library of Congress, and not all that do are part of our Bernstein Collection. In addition to the aforementioned gift pieces to friends and family, some works are known to live in the Kennedy Library, in Israel, and in private hands. Among the works that are found elsewhere within the Library's collections are sketches and a short score for The Kaddish in our Jack Gottlieb Collection, the full score for The Serenade (after Plato's Symposium) in our Koussevitzky Archive (it was a Koussevitzky commission), and the song "Victory Jive" in our Gershwin Fund Collection.

There are various sources of the music manuscripts within our Bernstein Collection. The majority comes from the Bernstein estate, but significant portions were given to the Library by Bernstein himself between 1953 and 1967. This included manuscripts (but not necessarily all) for The Serenade, West Side Story, Trouble in Tahiti, On the Waterfront, Prelude, Fugue and Riffs, Fancy Free, Candide, The Age of Anxiety, The Chichester Psalms and other works.

The date range of the music manuscripts run from 1935, when Bernstein was 16 or 17, through 1990, a few months before he passed away. Although Bernstein is not generally thought of as having been particularly prolific as a composer, these manuscripts reveal a large number of obscure and unknown works.

First organized alphabetically by larger work title. Within these, the typical order is (where they exist): full scores, short scores or piano-conductor scores, piano-vocal scores, parts, scripts, and other materials. Some items may be further organized therein by smaller units, such as song titles, and/or arranged chronologically by year.

BOX 1096-1583

Non-Holograph Music and Production Materials, 1932-1995

This subseries comprises a wide variety of items: copies of Bernstein manuscripts; scores in the hands of arrangers, orchestrators and assistants; copyist manuscripts; photo-reproductions of various kinds; and printed music. These materials came to the Library over several years and include items that were edited, printed, compiled, or published after Bernstein's death. Significant portions of the music are annotated by Bernstein, many of them quite heavily, to the degree that, in some instances, they might almost be considered holographs themselves. These annotations include corrections, performance markings, new and changed material, and notes to himself and colleagues. Many of the identifications, descriptions, and commentaries in this portion of the finding aid were transcribed from notes on envelopes, folders, or on items themselves and appear to be in the hands of Bernstein's musical assistants, Jack Gottlieb or Charlie Harmon.

For some works, there are materials for many productions. Candide, in particular, has materials identified as being for eighteen different productions. Other works have materials that represent their constant evolution during creation. Examples include: 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Mass, and A Quiet Place. There are sets of like materials that were used by various people; when possible, we have identified those individuals. Particularly with parts, there are often some sets that are organized in books for individual musicians, as well as folders for individual numbers. Similarly, full scores and piano-vocal scores may be in sets by show order and/or alphabetical order. Whenever possible, these groupings have been maintained as they were when they came to the Library.

The production materials are a fairly modest percentage of this subseries, but includes scripts, correspondence, business papers, notes, audition materials, and other items. In the case of Candide, there are also photocopies of Richard Wilbur's lyric sketches for the show and other materials, copied from the Richard Wilbur Collection at the Amherst College Library.

Those researching the music in the collection would be advised to consult both the holograph and non-holograph items for a given work, in order to get a complete picture of Bernstein's intent and the range from his initial conception to final thoughts.

First organized alphabetically by larger work title. Within these, the typical order is (where they exist): full scores, short scores or piano-conductor scores, piano-vocal scores, parts, scripts, and other materials. Some items may be further organized therein by smaller units, such as song titles, and/or arranged chronologically by year.

BOX 199-320 Photographs, 1915-1993

Most of the photographs in the Bernstein Collection are organized in boxes, and arranged chronologically--one to three boxes per year. The content of the photographs can be accessed chronologically, or by using the two alphabetically arranged indexes: an index to names and an index to places, events and activities.

A designation (44A/012) may represent either an individual photograph, or a collection of images. When it represents multiple images, it is usually either a collection of snapshots, a group of photographs affixed to a single piece of paper, or even two 8"x10"'s affixed to either side of a piece of paper. In some cases there may be additional copies, often enlarged, of one or more of these individual images included in the group --these all may share the same designation.

Designations are primarily in two sections. In most cases, the first two characters represent the year of the photograph(s), i.e. "56" is 1956, and "87" is 1987. In cases where an exact year is unknown, but a decade is either known or assumed, the second character is an "X", i.e. "6X" represents a period between 1960 and 1969. "MD" stands for "Mixed Dates," meaning, photographs that cover a range of years and/or decades and must be kept together (usually because they are affixed in a photo album); and "ND" stands for "No Dates known," meaning that there is not enough information to even determine the likely decade when the photograph(s) was taken. The other "odd" designations are: "HC" for holiday cards, "LB" for a collection of portraits of Bernstein sent out on request, "FB" for a collection of portraits and production shots of Felicia, "10MS" for Mass production shots, "FD" for photographs used or considered for Findings, and "NL" for images used in the Norton Lectures. The third character is usually the letter "A". This signifies that the photograph(s) is/are kept in folders either singly or in a small group with other photographs. When the letter is a "B," "C," "D," or "E" it signifies a photo album. Photo albums are also bolded, and do not have individual numeric designations for each image. When the third letter is an "S," it signifies that the item is in one of the two boxes of slides.

The second section --following the slash (/) --is a number representing either a specific image or a group of images. Hence, "73A/027" is the 27th image (or group of images) from the year 1973. "73B" represents any image included in the first photo album from 1973.

Some designations have an additional field of information. These include "[Ov]" for "Oversize," "[+Ov]" indicating a photograph that is both included in the regular size photographs and in the oversize photographs, and "[Ov1]," "[Ov2]," etc. representing the various degrees of oversize material.

There are two indexes to the photographs: the first is a name index and the second is an index to places, events and activities. These indexes are labelled "Photos: People" and "Photos: Places/Events/Activities" and can be found under the Index Terms tab, or, if you are viewing the PDF version, at the end of this finding aid. Leonard Bernstein is not listed in the first index as most of the photographs in the collection include him. In the second index, the majority of activities are listed under "Bernstein, Leonard." One activity not included is conducting. On average there are dozens of photographs in every year of Bernstein conducting, so for the researcher wishing conducting shots it is recommended that they determine the year/age they wish the shots for and look through the photographs for that year. Activities are alphabetized by the noun when they exist. For instance, "playing the drums" is alphabetized under "d," whereas "swimming" is alphabetized under "s".

A large number of photographs came with identification written on the back, margins, or included with various forms of notes. These were the basis for most of the information in the indexes. However, it must be noted, as useful as this information was, we know that this information is not infallible. For instance, we encountered a number of photographs where copies of the exact same photograph were marked with different dates, different locations, and the identification of the people in the photographs included variant spellings. We made reasonable attempts to determine correct spellings.

Many photographs are not represented in either of the indexes simply because there was no identifying information. When one photograph is listed in an index, it is not unusual for there to be other photographs near it that may be from the same venue, but the photographs contained no identifying information so they were not included in the index. So, it may be worth the researcher's time to look at the photographs in surrounding folders to the one you have identified as containing the desired subject matter.

In most cases, where a place as noted in the photograph has no identifying features, for instance a portrait taken with a plain background, but notated as having been taken in "St. Louis," that photograph would be unlikely show up in the index under "St. Louis," unless it was within a range of other photographs that included recognizable locations in "St. Louis." Similarly, if a photograph is notated that Bernstein is conducting the Vienna Philharmonic, but no orchestra members are visible in the photograph, the photograph is not likely to appear in the index next to "Vienna Philharmonic."

A few folders are empty and are marked "[photo missing]." These are cases where the Library was provided with notebooks of photocopies of photographs for a given year, but the original photograph never turned up in the collection after the Library received it. The assumption is that these photographs were loaned out by the Bernstein organization, but they were not returned by the time the collection was given to the Library. We hope, in time, that these photographs will be found and inserted in their proper place. Until that time, they are not represented in either of the indexes.

Arranged chronologically.

PERMISSIONS/PRINTS/COPYING: Photocopies may be made of photographs for reference purposes only. Before any duplicates or negatives can be made by the Library's Photoduplications Service, we require the written permission of the copyright holder -- usually the photographer or their estate. For permission to copy family photos and snapshots, we require the written permission of Amberson, Inc. For other photographs, where no photographer information is provided, or visible (i.e. photographs affixed to paper, in albums, etc.) we require no permissions. Currently, the turnaround time for prints is four to six weeks.

BOX 321-327 Datebooks, 1944-1990

This series contains over fifty of Bernstein's datebooks dating from 1944 to 1990, and covering virtually his entire professional career. In some instances, more than one datebook covers the same time period. The datebooks have annotations in many hands, though primarily either those of Bernstein or his secretary Helen Coates.

Arranged chronologically.

BOX 328-329 Schedules, 1983-1992

Over ninety schedules regarding Bernstein's travel, conducting, recording and other appearances between October 1983 and December 1992. Some schedules may cover the same time period as plans were changed or refined.

Arranged chronologically.

BOX 330-331 Address Books and Message Books, 1988-1989

Six address books appear to cover different periods of time and may have been used at various locations. One address book includes only foreign addresses. In addition, there are three telephone message books for the period 1988 to 1989.

Arranged chronologically.

BOX 332-334 Iconography

Iconography includes cartoons, pen and ink drawings, watercolors, prints, caricatures, and other items of a visual nature. Many of the works are representations of Bernstein or of a production conducted by Bernstein.

Arranged by format.

BOX 335-386 Programs, 1925-1993

The Programs series contains approximately 2,800 programs (including duplicates) dating from 1925 through 1993. It should be noted, that many significant programs may be found only in the Scrapbooks--particularly those dating through the 1950's. While most of the programs in the collection are concert programs, the Programs series also contains programs to other types of events, including memorial services, films, stage works, radio or television series, tributes, festivals, graduation ceremonies, award ceremonies, and recordings. In general, programs have been organized in date order. In the case of festivals and events that cover a range of dates we have used the earliest date. Some of the programs are for events which Bernstein attended but did not participate in.

At the end of the Programs series are bound collections of programs and typed lists or computer printouts listing Bernstein's concert programs. Some of these items appear to have been compiled and annotated by Bernstein's assistant, Jack Gottlieb. Additional items filed among the general chronology of programs include tour itinerary schedules, clippings regarding specific programs, publicity materials, theatre and orchestra publications, and invitations.

Arranged chronologically.

While it is hard to provide rules for what programs can or cannot be copied without the written permission of a copyright holder, the following information--provided by the General Counsel's Office of the Copyright Office--should be helpful. Published items (which we would consider most programs to be) with no copyright notice and a publication date prior to 1978 are in the public domain. A program published between 1978 and 1989 without a copyright notice is probably in the public domain. Programs that were copyrighted more than 75 years ago are in the public domain; and, if they were copyrighted, but not renewed within 28 years prior to 1978 they are in the public domain. After 1989 copyright notices became optional. Programs which are under copyright may still be copied to the degree covered by "fair use." In general, copying factual information from a program (such as the pages that list what works are being performed, song titles, listings of performers, designers, etc.) is more likely to be covered by "fair use" than articles or program notes.

Arranged chronologically and alphabetically by name therein.

BOX 505-604 Press Materials, 1930-1994, undated

BOX 605-1041 Business Papers, 1944-1994

The Business Papers series is divided into two subseries that reflect their arrangement upon receipt by the Library of Congress: the Personal Business Papers, and the Amberson Business Papers. The distinction between the two subseries is not always clear. The Personal Business Papers reflect Bernstein's business dealings chiefly beginning in 1944 (and perhaps a bit earlier) and continuing through the early 1970s when the Amberson Corporation increasingly took over aspects of that work.

Amberson Enterprises, Inc., Bernstein's management company, was founded February 20, 1959, with Helen Coates, Abraham Friedman (Bernstein's lawyer) and H. Gordon Freeman (Bernstein's accountant) as directors. The company was named Amberson after the German word Bernstein which means "amber." The materials in the Amberson Business Papers reflect most of Bernstein's business dealings starting in 1959, and continuing slightly beyond Bernstein's death in 1990. However, between 1958 and 1969, the New York Philharmonic, where Bernstein was music director, managed many of Bernstein's business dealings. It wasn't until 1969 that Amberson began to take on significantly larger duties and responsibilities, and the two sets of business papers began to be thought of as separate entities.

Schuyler Chapin was appointed executive producer of Amberson Productions, an affiliate of Amberson Enterprises, Inc., in September 1969. Chapin left Amberson in 1971 to become general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, but remained on the board of trustees. Harry Kraut (previously Tanglewood's manager) was named executive vice president of Amberson Enterprises, Inc. in January 1972. The company's name was changed to Amberson, Inc. in 1989. In 1995 it was renamed the Leonard Bernstein Office, Inc./ Amberson Holdings LLC.

The Amberson Business Papers reflect activities of several companies and related subsidiaries, some of whose names have changed over the years. During Leonard Bernstein's lifetime, various Bernstein group companies were formed for music publishing and concert/video production purposes. These include: Mozart Films, Inc. (1966), which became Amberson Video, Inc. (1972); Amberson Pictures Corp. (1969) renamed Amberson Productions, Inc., the same year; Amberson Festivals, Inc. (date unknown) which became Video Music Education, Inc. (1973); Video Music Inc. (also known as VMI); Video Music Productions, Inc. (also known as VMP); La Boheme, Inc. (1986); Jalni Publications, Inc. (1978) and Jalni Enterprises, Inc. ("Jalni" was derived from the initial letters of Bernstein's children—Jamie, Alexander and Nina); and Springate. This list is not considered complete, nor does it indicate all the mergings.

The Amberson Business Papers were originally arranged in groupings according to date ranges. As file space ran out, old files would be placed in storage to make room for current and new files. The Amberson Business Papers series in the Leonard Bernstein Collection is arranged in one alphabetical sequence with materials arranged chronologically therein. In some cases, various names for files that are obviously of the same type and subject were regularized under the same name. Later additions to the series have been boxed separately at the end, but are interfiled alphabetically within the finding aid series.

There is an additional grouping at the end of the Amberson Business Papers called the Coates, Gottlieb, Harmon and Proskauer Files. It reflects the papers of the following individuals who worked for Amberson: Helen G. Coates, Bernstein's childhood piano teacher, became Bernstein's secretary at the beginning of his career and served in that capacity until her death in 1989. She began, annotated and maintained Leonard Bernstein's personal and professional archives; Jack Gottlieb was Bernstein's assistant at the New York Philharmonic from 1958 through 1966. He joined Amberson's staff in the 1970s, working as editor and director of publications, and later as a consultant on all matters musical and archival; Charlie Harmon (same as Richard Charles Harmon) joined Amberson as personal assistant to Bernstein in 1982. He later served as archivist, then music editor; "Proskauer," represents the law firm Proskauer Rose Goetz & Mendelsohn. Beginning around 1975, member Paul H. Epstein became counsel to Bernstein and Amberson.

Container List

Container	Contents
BOX 1-67, 68 OV, 60A-60J	Correspondence, 1928-1994, undated

35 linear feet of shelf space, around 17,559 items

The correspondence in the Leonard Bernstein Collection consists of more than 17,500 individual items from over 3,300 individuals or organizations. All material from or relating to a correspondent is housed in its own folder(s) and arranged chronologically. Undated material is filed at the back. Each identifiable correspondent is indexed alphabetically in the finding aid along with the date range and the number of items in the folder(s). Unidentified correspondence is at the end. Most of the correspondence falls between the dates of 1932, the year of Bernstein's engagement of Helen Grace Coates as piano teacher at the age of 14, and 1990, the year of his death.

In addition to such standard items as letters, postcards, telegrams, and birthday and greeting cards, the correspondence also contains the occasional photograph, music manuscript, diary, appointment book, script, collection of poems, or art work (e.g., sketches). No attempt was made to indicate all the non-standard items where they occur, but on occasion a parenthetical note will be found regarding such novelties.

Most of Bernstein's individual correspondents are filed under their own names. However, some are filed under organizational or business names, or topics, e.g., Candide. These designations pre-date the Library of Congress Music Division's possession of the material. Some letters from prominent individuals were moved from the "fan mail" collection to "correspondence" prior to the presentation of the collection to the Library.

A significant amount of the correspondence includes Bernstein's responses to the letters he received. These typically appear in the form of handwritten or typed replies in the margins or on the backs of the letters received by Bernstein. The handwritten responses are either in Bernstein's hand or that of Helen Coates in her capacity as secretary. There is no indication in this finding aid where such responses occur. In some cases, however, Bernstein's actual outgoing letters--either originals, or photocopies--are present, either filed chronologically within the correspondence, or collected separately in their own folder. In both instances, parenthetical notes indicate the filing method (for example, Burton Bernstein, Felicia Bernstein, Helen Coates, Serge Koussevitzky). After Bernstein's death, Charlie Harmon and Harry Kraut contacted people likely to have received letters from Bernstein and requested photocopies of that correspondence. These photocopies are filed at the end of each correspondent's folder. The only clue to the location of these items in the correspondence is found by noting the date spans--as these items were solicited via a letter dated post-1990 (also included)--most date spans which exceed 1990 indicate the presence of photocopied Bernstein correspondence.

In addition, the Library included two other sets of material in the Correspondence: over 300 condolence letters sent to Bernstein after the death of his father, referenced under Bernstein, Samuel J.; and over 700 letters, referenced under Coates, Helen, primarily from Bernstein to Coates, but also from various other persons to Coates, from Coates to Bernstein, and from Bernstein to several other persons. In the case of Helen Coates, each of the correspondents found in her file is listed parenthetically following her name in the guide with cross-references listed under the correspondent. For Samuel Bernstein's condolence letters, no cross references are provided.

In December 2010, the Leonard Bernstein estate donated over 1800 additional pieces of personal correspondence to the Library of Congress. Though much of this material is intensely personal and had been previously sealed, the family felt that since Bernstein has been dead over twenty years, the research value of the correspondence outweighed most of the privacy concerns. This additional correspondence has been physically added to the end of the series in boxes 60A-J, but the names are arranged alphabetically and interfiled with the previous correspondence in the finding aid. The hundreds of letters from dozens of correspondents include 79 additional letters from Felicia Bernstein, 101 from Shirley Bernstein, 37 from Helen Coates, 39 from Aaron Copland, 150 from David Diamond, 67 from Martha Gellhorn, 15 from Lillian Hellman, and 78 from David Oppenheim.

Many other series in the collection contain correspondence. In fact, "Fan Mail" and the "Personal Business Papers" under the Business Papers series are almost entirely correspondence, but even "Photographs" and "Writings" contain a certain amount--although the letters in the former are primarily addressed to members of Bernstein's staff, and letters in the latter include drafts of letters by Bernstein, some of which were never sent, and originals of letters sent by Bernstein (some of which appear to have been retrieved for inclusion in his book Findings.)

Bernstein's family and staff were exceptional custodians of the correspondence prior to its coming to the Library and most of the organization and identification of materials was theirs. They have also always been responsive to questions that have come up during the course of our work, especially an attempt to identify as much of the unsigned, illegible, or sans surname signatures as possible. Special gratitude is due to Albert Tucker, who performed most of the work on the correspondence in the collection and prepared the following inventory.

BOX 69-198	Writings, 1928-1991 9,256 items, 130 boxes The Writings series contains a diverse group of documents that reflect Bernstein's wide-ranging activities. Spanning 1928 to 1991 (when an article was published posthumously in the New York Times), these writings might be characterized as non-music manuscripts (although many items are typescripts as opposed to manuscripts, and some items--notably transcripts of interviews--were not really "written" at all). The Writings series is divided into four subseries. The first, General Writings Chronology, includes the bulk of the writings, arranged in date order--by date of creation, publication, performance, presentation, or other approximate date. This is followed by the Television Scripts subseries which is further subdivided into the Young People's Concerts Television Scripts (arranged chronologically by air date); Bound Television Scripts; Television Scripts Collections--Notebooks; and TelePrompTer scripts. The final two subseries are Norton Lectures/The Unanswered Question and Book Materials. The Norton lectures include not only Bernstein's manuscript notes, draft scripts, and annotated typescripts, but also notes and outlines of others who helped prepare the lectures, research materials, television production materials, TelePrompTer scripts, and correspondence relating to the production and distribution of the lectures on video. The Book Materials include typescripts, musical examples, planning materials, correspondence with the publisher, and publisher's proofs. The contents within the various subseries are not exclusive. For example, the General Writings Chronology contains Norton lecture material, book materials and television scripts. Where titles exist, they appear as the initial entry in the "Title/Description" field in this guide. Either in place of, or following, a title, but always in square brackets, is a description of the type of work represented--article, poem, lecture, etc.--including any information known about where or for what or whom items were created, published or presented, and often a brief topic description. Most descriptions are self-explanatory; one exception is "imaginary conversation," a term created by Bernstein to describe a particular type of article. The Writings series contains sketches and/or complete drafts for twelve imaginary conversations, of which, apparently, only three or four were published. This guide can most successfully be used by those able to access it by computer and do word searches. In that way, for instance, the fifteen writings with titles or descriptions that include "Mahler" can be found in a matter of seconds. Searching for "Tanglewood" will garner the researcher not only writings about Tanglewood, but writings on various topics presented at Tanglewood.

In terms of discrete works, the largest number of items in the Writings series is contained in the General Writings Chronology list; however, in terms of the amount of space required to house material, the various groupings are roughly proportionate. For example, while the total of 37 boxes of material described in the general listing represents hundreds of titles, the 39 boxes of Norton lectures material represent a total of six lectures. The Writings series includes notes, drafts, and completed works intended for presentation before a public readership or audience: music reviews and other articles; program and liner notes; speeches and statements; lectures; concert preview/explanatory scripts; TV scripts and other TV or radio commentary; books authored by Bernstein; introductions and prefaces to books by other authors; lyrics; etc.

The General Writings Chronology list also contains manuscripts or typescripts intended for more limited readerships: school and extra-curricular work while at Boston Latin School or Harvard College (short stories, essays, work assignments and exams, college thesis, music reviews); letters, birthday poems, memos, and recommendations, written for family, friends, colleagues, proteges, or staff; and poems and poem translations, crossword puzzles and games, a sleep record from January and February 1983, annotated texts or books, and marginal notes, written by Bernstein for his own use.

Some anomalies will be found in the Writings series, among which are the following: interviews; a Charlie Harmon phone list; a transcript of a speech by Joachim Kaiser at the bestowal of the Karl Amadeus Hartmann Medal on Bernstein in 1986; a list of Bernstein's copyrighted works; and a catalog for the Museum of Broadcasting's 1985 exhibition concerning Bernstein's television work. These maladapts are housed in the Writings series both because this was where they were filed prior to coming to the Library, and because they provide important direct (interviews) or indirect (Joachim Kaiser speech) testimony concerning Bernstein's life and how it touched the lives of others. Since this is what we hope the Writings series conveys anyway, it seems not unreasonable to accept a few black sheep within its fold.

A final caveat: because certain types of material are typically found in the Writings series, please do not assume that all such items in the collection are to be found here. One should, for example, also peruse the Amberson Business Papers subseries, which is known to contain, inter alia, interviews, recommendations, correspondence (personal), and speeches.

The holograph music in the Bernstein Collection represents the music written in Bernstein's hand, from sketches to fair copies. A separate series of music has not yet been fully described for inclusion in this finding aid, but is accessible on request. That series includes manuscripts in the hands of copyists and colleagues, photoreproductions (some of which are of Bernstein manuscripts), printed and published music. This material includes full scores and parts, and some of it includes edits and annotations in Bernstein's hand.

Much of the material came to us in envelopes that included substantive notes on the history of their contents and relationships between works. These notes had been prepared by Bernstein's musical assistants, Jack Gottlieb, Charlie Harmon, and others. To the degree possible, we transcribed this information and included it in the notes for each work. We assume, but cannot attest to its accuracy.

While this subseries is called holograph music, it does include other related materials such as notes, correspondence, and scripts that were included in the packages of music that we received. There are also occasional photocopies of manuscripts, particularly works where the originals were gifts to friends and family. Some complex works have been kept in groupings that were designated before we received them and may reflect various stages of sketches and versions of a work. Dybbuk is a good example. We have also attempted to include as many cross-references as possible, particularly for versions of works whose titles changed, and those that moved within multiple pieces.

Not all of Bernstein's holograph music manuscripts reside at the Library of Congress, and not all that do are part of our Bernstein Collection. In addition to the aforementioned gift pieces to friends and family, some works are known to live in the Kennedy Library, in Israel, and in private hands. Among the works that are found elsewhere within the Library's collections are sketches and a short score for The Kaddish in our Jack Gottlieb Collection, the full score for The Serenade (after Plato's Symposium) in our Koussevitzky Archive (it was a Koussevitzky commission), and the song "Victory Jive" in our Gershwin Fund Collection.

There are various sources of the music manuscripts within our Bernstein Collection. The majority comes from the Bernstein estate, but significant portions were given to the Library by Bernstein himself between 1953 and 1967. This included manuscripts (but not necessarily all) for The Serenade, West Side Story, Trouble in Tahiti, On the Waterfront, Prelude, Fugue and Riffs, Fancy Free, Candide, The Age of Anxiety, The Chichester Psalms and other works.

The date range of the music manuscripts run from 1935, when Bernstein was 16 or 17, through 1990, a few months before he passed away. Although Bernstein is not generally thought of as having been particularly prolific as a composer, these manuscripts reveal a large number of obscure and unknown works.

First organized alphabetically by larger work title. Within these, the typical order is (where they exist): full scores, short scores or piano-conductor scores, piano-vocal scores, parts, scripts, and other materials. Some items may be further organized therein by smaller units, such as song titles, and/or arranged chronologically by year.

BOX 1096-1583 Non-Holograph Music and Production Materials, 1932-1995

This subseries comprises a wide variety of items: copies of Bernstein manuscripts; scores in the hands of arrangers, orchestrators and assistants; copyist manuscripts; photo-reproductions of various kinds; and printed music. These materials came to the Library over several years and include items that were edited, printed, compiled, or published after Bernstein's death. Significant portions of the music are annotated by Bernstein, many of them quite heavily, to the degree that, in some instances, they might almost be considered holographs themselves. These annotations include corrections, performance markings, new and changed material, and notes to himself and colleagues. Many of the identifications, descriptions, and commentaries in this portion of the finding aid were transcribed from notes on envelopes, folders, or on items themselves and appear to be in the hands of Bernstein's musical assistants, Jack Gottlieb or Charlie Harmon.

	For some works, there are materials for many productions. Candide, in particular, has materials identified as being for eighteen different productions. Other works have materials that represent their constant evolution during creation. Examples include: 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Mass, and A Quiet Place. There are sets of like materials that were used by various people; when possible, we have identified those individuals. Particularly with parts, there are often some sets that are organized in books for individual musicians, as well as folders for individual numbers. Similarly, full scores and piano-vocal scores may be in sets by show order and/or alphabetical order. Whenever possible, these groupings have been maintained as they were when they came to the Library.
	The production materials are a fairly modest percentage of this subseries, but includes scripts, correspondence, business papers, notes, audition materials, and other items. In the case of Candide, there are also photocopies of Richard Wilbur's lyric sketches for the show and other materials, copied from the Richard Wilbur Collection at the Amherst College Library.
	Those researching the music in the collection would be advised to consult both the holograph and non-holograph items for a given work, in order to get a complete picture of Bernstein's intent and the range from his initial conception to final thoughts.
	First organized alphabetically by larger work title. Within these, the typical order is (where they exist): full scores, short scores or piano-conductor scores, piano-vocal scores, parts, scripts, and other materials. Some items may be further organized therein by smaller units, such as song titles, and/or arranged chronologically by year.

BOX 199-320	Photographs, 1915-1993
	17,440 items
	Most of the photographs in the Bernstein Collection are organized in boxes, and arranged chronologically--one to three boxes per year. The content of the photographs can be accessed chronologically, or by using the two alphabetically arranged indexes: an index to names and an index to places, events and activities.
	A designation (44A/012) may represent either an individual photograph, or a collection of images. When it represents multiple images, it is usually either a collection of snapshots, a group of photographs affixed to a single piece of paper, or even two 8"x10"'s affixed to either side of a piece of paper. In some cases there may be additional copies, often enlarged, of one or more of these individual images included in the group --these all may share the same designation.
	Designations are primarily in two sections. In most cases, the first two characters represent the year of the photograph(s), i.e. "56" is 1956, and "87" is 1987. In cases where an exact year is unknown, but a decade is either known or assumed, the second character is an "X", i.e. "6X" represents a period between 1960 and 1969. "MD" stands for "Mixed Dates," meaning, photographs that cover a range of years and/or decades and must be kept together

(usually because they are affixed in a photo album); and "ND" stands for "No Dates known," meaning that there is not enough information to even determine the likely decade when the photograph(s) was taken. The other "odd" designations are: "HC" for holiday cards, "LB" for a collection of portraits of Bernstein sent out on request, "FB" for a collection of portraits and production shots of Felicia, "10MS" for Mass production shots, "FD" for photographs used or considered for Findings, and "NL" for images used in the Norton Lectures. The third character is usually the letter "A". This signifies that the photograph(s) is/are kept in folders either singly or in a small group with other photographs. When the letter is a "B," "C," "D," or "E" it signifies a photo album. Photo albums are also bolded, and do not have individual numeric designations for each image. When the third letter is an "S," it signifies that the item is in one of the two boxes of slides.

The second section --following the slash (/) --is a number representing either a specific image or a group of images. Hence, "73A/027" is the 27th image (or group of images) from the year 1973. "73B" represents any image included in the first photo album from 1973.

Some designations have an additional field of information. These include "[Ov]" for "Oversize," "[+Ov]" indicating a photograph that is both included in the regular size photographs and in the oversize photographs, and "[Ov1]," "[Ov2]," etc. representing the various degrees of oversize material.

There are two indexes to the photographs: the first is a name index and the second is an index to places, events and activities. These indexes are labelled "Photos: People" and "Photos: Places/Events/Activities" and can be found under the Index Terms tab, or, if you are viewing the PDF version, at the end of this finding aid. Leonard Bernstein is not listed in the first index as most of the photographs in the collection include him. In the second index, the majority of activities are listed under "Bernstein, Leonard." One activity not included is conducting. On average there are dozens of photographs in every year of Bernstein conducting, so for the researcher wishing conducting shots it is recommended that they determine the year/age they wish the shots for and look through the photographs for that year. Activities are alphabetized by the noun when they exist. For instance, "playing the drums" is alphabetized under "d," whereas "swimming" is alphabetized under "s".

A large number of photographs came with identification written on the back, margins, or included with various forms of notes. These were the basis for most of the information in the indexes. However, it must be noted, as useful as this information was, we know that this information is not infallible. For instance, we encountered a number of photographs where copies of the exact same photograph were marked with different dates, different locations, and the identification of the people in the photographs included variant spellings. We made reasonable attempts to determine correct spellings.

Many photographs are not represented in either of the indexes simply because there was no identifying information. When one photograph is listed in an index, it is not unusual for there to be other photographs near it that may be from the same venue, but the photographs contained no identifying information so they were not included in the index. So, it may be worth the researcher's time to look at the photographs in surrounding folders to the one you have identified as containing the desired subject matter.

In most cases, where a place as noted in the photograph has no identifying features, for instance a portrait taken with a plain background, but notated as having been taken in "St. Louis," that photograph would be unlikely show up in the index under "St. Louis," unless it was within a range of other photographs that included recognizable locations in "St. Louis." Similarly, if a photograph is notated that Bernstein is conducting the Vienna Philharmonic, but no orchestra members are visible in the photograph, the photograph is not likely to appear in the index next to "Vienna Philharmonic."

A few folders are empty and are marked "[photo missing]." These are cases where the Library was provided with notebooks of photocopies of photographs for a given year, but the original photograph never turned up in the collection after the Library received it. The assumption is that these photographs were loaned out by the Bernstein organization, but they were not returned by the time the collection was given to the Library. We hope, in time, that these photographs will be found and inserted in their proper place. Until that time, they are not represented in either of the indexes.

	Arranged chronologically.
	PERMISSIONS/PRINTS/COPYING: Photocopies may be made of photographs for reference purposes only. Before any duplicates or negatives can be made by the Library's Photoduplications Service, we require the written permission of the copyright holder -- usually the photographer or their estate. For permission to copy family photos and snapshots, we require the written permission of Amberson, Inc. For other photographs, where no photographer information is provided, or visible (i.e. photographs affixed to paper, in albums, etc.) we require no permissions. Currently, the turnaround time for prints is four to six weeks.

BOX 321-327	Datebooks, 1944-1990
	This series contains over fifty of Bernstein's datebooks dating from 1944 to 1990, and covering virtually his entire professional career. In some instances, more than one datebook covers the same time period. The datebooks have annotations in many hands, though primarily either those of Bernstein or his secretary Helen Coates.
	Arranged chronologically.

BOX 332-334	Iconography Iconography includes cartoons, pen and ink drawings, watercolors, prints, caricatures, and other items of a visual nature. Many of the works are representations of Bernstein or of a production conducted by Bernstein. Arranged by format.
BOX 332-334	Includes: comic books; caricatures, including 1 by Klaus Bohle & 1 by Flex Coulter; cartoons; pen and inks, including 7 by Jossi Stern and 7 by Leo Glueckselig; puppets [photographs]; catalogues, including 1 of paintings by Vittorio Piccinini Omaggio a Leonard Bernstein; prints; drawings, including 7 "Scenes from Der Rosenkavalier"; watercolors; highly illustrated/decorated birthday cards; artists' brochures. Most items are of or refer to Bernstein.
BOX 335-386	Programs, 1925-1993 The Programs series contains approximately 2,800 programs (including duplicates) dating from 1925 through 1993. It should be noted, that many significant programs may be found only in the Scrapbooks--particularly those dating through the 1950's. While most of the programs in the collection are concert programs, the Programs series also contains programs to other types of events, including memorial services, films, stage works, radio or television series, tributes, festivals, graduation ceremonies, award ceremonies, and recordings. In general, programs have been organized in date order. In the case of festivals and events that cover a range of dates we have used the earliest date. Some of the programs are for events which Bernstein attended but did not participate in. At the end of the Programs series are bound collections of programs and typed lists or computer printouts listing Bernstein's concert programs. Some of these items appear to have been compiled and annotated by Bernstein's assistant, Jack Gottlieb. Additional items filed among the general chronology of programs include tour itinerary schedules, clippings regarding specific programs, publicity materials, theatre and orchestra publications, and invitations. Arranged chronologically. While it is hard to provide rules for what programs can or cannot be copied without the written permission of a copyright holder, the following information--provided by the General Counsel's Office of the Copyright Office--should be helpful. Published items (which we would consider most programs to be) with no copyright notice and a publication date prior to 1978 are in the public domain. A program published between 1978 and 1989 without a copyright notice is probably in the public domain. Programs that were copyrighted more than 75 years ago are in the public domain; and, if they were copyrighted, but not renewed within 28 years prior to 1978 they are in the public domain. After 1989 copyright notices became optional. Programs which are under copyright may still be copied to the degree covered by "fair use." In general, copying factual information from a program (such as the pages that list what works are being performed, song titles, listings of performers, designers, etc.) is more likely to be covered by "fair use" than articles or program notes.

BOX 605-1041	Business Papers, 1944-1994 The Business Papers series is divided into two subseries that reflect their arrangement upon receipt by the Library of Congress: the Personal Business Papers, and the Amberson Business Papers. The distinction between the two subseries is not always clear. The Personal Business Papers reflect Bernstein's business dealings chiefly beginning in 1944 (and perhaps a bit earlier) and continuing through the early 1970s when the Amberson Corporation increasingly took over aspects of that work. Amberson Enterprises, Inc., Bernstein's management company, was founded February 20, 1959, with Helen Coates, Abraham Friedman (Bernstein's lawyer) and H. Gordon Freeman (Bernstein's accountant) as directors. The company was named Amberson after the German word Bernstein which means "amber." The materials in the Amberson Business Papers reflect most of Bernstein's business dealings starting in 1959, and continuing slightly beyond Bernstein's death in 1990. However, between 1958 and 1969, the New York Philharmonic, where Bernstein was music director, managed many of Bernstein's business dealings. It wasn't until 1969 that Amberson began to take on significantly larger duties and responsibilities, and the two sets of business papers began to be thought of as separate entities.

Schuyler Chapin was appointed executive producer of Amberson Productions, an affiliate of Amberson Enterprises, Inc., in September 1969. Chapin left Amberson in 1971 to become general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, but remained on the board of trustees. Harry Kraut (previously Tanglewood's manager) was named executive vice president of Amberson Enterprises, Inc. in January 1972. The company's name was changed to Amberson, Inc. in 1989. In 1995 it was renamed the Leonard Bernstein Office, Inc./ Amberson Holdings LLC.

The Amberson Business Papers reflect activities of several companies and related subsidiaries, some of whose names have changed over the years. During Leonard Bernstein's lifetime, various Bernstein group companies were formed for music publishing and concert/video production purposes. These include: Mozart Films, Inc. (1966), which became Amberson Video, Inc. (1972); Amberson Pictures Corp. (1969) renamed Amberson Productions, Inc., the same year; Amberson Festivals, Inc. (date unknown) which became Video Music Education, Inc. (1973); Video Music Inc. (also known as VMI); Video Music Productions, Inc. (also known as VMP); La Boheme, Inc. (1986); Jalni Publications, Inc. (1978) and Jalni Enterprises, Inc. ("Jalni" was derived from the initial letters of Bernstein's children—Jamie, Alexander and Nina); and Springate. This list is not considered complete, nor does it indicate all the mergings.

The Amberson Business Papers were originally arranged in groupings according to date ranges. As file space ran out, old files would be placed in storage to make room for current and new files. The Amberson Business Papers series in the Leonard Bernstein Collection is arranged in one alphabetical sequence with materials arranged chronologically therein. In some cases, various names for files that are obviously of the same type and subject were regularized under the same name. Later additions to the series have been boxed separately at the end, but are interfiled alphabetically within the finding aid series.

There is an additional grouping at the end of the Amberson Business Papers called the Coates, Gottlieb, Harmon and Proskauer Files. It reflects the papers of the following individuals who worked for Amberson: Helen G. Coates, Bernstein's childhood piano teacher, became Bernstein's secretary at the beginning of his career and served in that capacity until her death in 1989. She began, annotated and maintained Leonard Bernstein's personal and professional archives; Jack Gottlieb was Bernstein's assistant at the New York Philharmonic from 1958 through 1966. He joined Amberson's staff in the 1970s, working as editor and director of publications, and later as a consultant on all matters musical and archival; Charlie Harmon (same as Richard Charles Harmon) joined Amberson as personal assistant to Bernstein in 1982. He later served as archivist, then music editor; "Proskauer," represents the law firm Proskauer Rose Goetz & Mendelsohn. Beginning around 1975, member Paul H. Epstein became counsel to Bernstein and Amberson.
