whole baggage of the Prussian army taken.

The duke of Brunswick died in the tent of the emperor in consequence of his wounds. The general Ruchel and prince Henry were killed. We had 3000 men wounded; and our loss, compared with that of the enemy is inconsiderable. We have only to regret general Debilly who was killed.

The queen of Prussia had fled at first to Weimar, which she left soon. Ten minutes after her flight from that place, the cavalry entered it. As the road which the queen has taken is covered with our troops, it may happen, as it was said at first, that she will fall into the hands of the French.

The king of Prussia, the generals Mollendorff and Kalkreuth are retiring with about 60,000 runaways by Franchausen, towards Madgeburg in the hope of rallying under the guns of that fortress.

The following intercepted letter contains a minute description of the situation of the Prussians after the battle of Jena.—

My dear wife,

I am still alive and well, after having been engaged in this disastrous battle. But, alas! I cannot conceal from you that we have lost the half of our Army, and all of our best generals.—My battalion ably sustained the charge, but we lost our cannon in the retreat. My company has lost 40 men and the lieutenant. Years would not suffice to tell you all our misfortunes, all our baggage is taken, even our servants could not escape. I arrived on the 16th at Hardhausen, without a horse or any thing else.—The army is retreating towards Magdeburg. His majesty has received a contusion.—Many generals are killed. The duke of Brunswick has lost both his eyes.—Many regiments are without officers, and others have officers but not soldiers. Our loss is immense. The battalions of Lostin, Barene and Grodana, exist no more. They made a part of the rear guard, which has been entirely cut to pieces.

WASHINGTON CITY.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 2.

The President of the United States was yesterday waited upon very generally by the executive officers of the government, the members of the legislature and the citizens of Washington. Among the company were also the foreign ministers resident at the city of Washington, and a large concourse of ladies and strangers. On no preceding occasion have the rooms of the Chief Magistrate been so crowded.

We have the pleasure of noticing the arrival in this city of our fellow-citizen, Mr. FULTON, a man no less distinguished for science than beneficence, and from whom his country may expect to reap the fruits of an extensive observation and experience, derived from a long residence in Europe.

James L. Cathcart, Esqr. has been appointed consul of the United States for the island of Madeira, vice Mr. Lemar, deceased.

The Frankfort Palladium of Dec. 11. gives the following account of proceedings in the U. S. Kentucky district court.

On December 2d the following grand jury was impannelled:

On December 3d the attorney of the district preferred to the grand jury an indictment against John Adair, which as there was not time to go through with the enquiry, the grand jury was adjourned to the next day.

On the 4th of December, the grand jury returned the bill to be "not a true bill." The following is the bill preferred:

United States of America:

Kentucky district, to wit.

The grand jury empanneled and sworn in and for the body of the said district, do on their oaths present, that a certain John Adair, formerly of the county of Mercer, in said district, did at said county and district, on the first day of August last past, in the present year, 1806, with force and arms, then and there wilfully and unlawfully, and from evil premeditation, set on foot, and prepare for a military expedition and enterprize, then and there against the dominions of the king of Spain, who is an European prince, at peace with the said U. S. to wit: The provinces of Mexico in North America, which appertain to the dominions of the said king of Spain, contrary to the laws of the U. States in such cases provided, and against the peace and dignity of the said U. S.

DAVEISS for U. S.

On Dec. 4 the attorney preferred an indictment against Aaron Burr, but not having time to go through with the same, they were adjourned until the next day.

On the 5th Dec. returned the indictment "not a true bill."

The following is the indictment preferred:

United States of America:

Kentucky district, to wit.

The grand jury of the U. S. in and for the body of the said district, do on their oaths present, that a certain Aaron Burr, late of the city of New York, and vice president of the said U. S. did with force and arms, at the county of Fayette, in said district, on the twenty fifth day of November last past, wilfully and unlawfully, and from evil premeditation, then and there set on foot, and prepare for a military expedition against the dominions of the king of Spain, who is an European prince, at peace with the said U. S. to wit: against the provinces of said king in North America, contrary to the laws of the said U. S. in such cases provided, and against the peace and dignity thereof.

And the jurors aforesaid, upon their oath aforesaid, do further present, that the said Burr did at said district, to wit: at the county of Jefferson, on the day, and in the year aforesaid, then and there, wilfully and unlawfully, with force and arms, prepare and provide the means for carrying on a military expedition and enterprize against the dominions of the king of Spain aforesaid, who is at peace with the said U. S. to wit: the provinces in North America, which are of the dominions of the said king of Spain, contrary to the laws of the United States, in such cases provided, and against the said U. States.

And so the jurors aforesaid, upon their oath aforesaid, do say that the said Aaron Burr, is guilty of the misdemeanors aforesaid, contrary to the laws of the U. States, and against the peace and dignity thereof.

[Here follows the special report of the grand jury as already given in our paper.]

Evidence of Joseph M. Street given to the grand jury in the case of United States vs. Col. Aaron Burr.

I can give the grand jury no information relative to the indictment. My knowledge of the business being entirely from information. The contract said to be entered into between Aaron Burr and John Brown in the second number of the Western World, under the head of "No Burrism, no federalism" alluded only to opening a canal on the north west side of the Ohio. Nor do I know any person who can give any information relative to the indictment.

EVIDENCE OF JOHN WOOD.

I knew nothing that will amount to evidence. For some time past I have changed my opinion respecting the conduct of Mr. Burr, and am persuaded that he has no intention of doing any thing contrary to the laws and interest of the United States. The contract entered into by col. Burr & Brown stated as above, I have been informed relates only to opening a canal on the Ohio and the conduct of col. Burr at St. Louis and New Orleans related only to land speculation.

The Frankfort Palladium of the 11th ult. states the departure of John Wood, Editor of the Western World, for this city.

George Masters has resigned the office of Chief Justice of Kentucky, and Thomas Todd is appointed his successor. Felix Grundy is appointed in the room of Benjamin Sebastian.

The Western World of the same date announces the confidential communication of the Governor of Ohio, and states the measures on which the legislature of Ohio were deliberating. This print charges the editor of the Palladium with partiality to Col. Burr.

Chillicothe, December 13.

The following gentlemen were empannelled and sworn on Friday last, as grand jurors, in the case of the state against Daniel Casset, viz.—Nathaniel Willis, foreman, Henry Massie, John Waddle, John Pickens, John G. Macan, John Hall, Wm. Wilson, John M'Coy, James M'Dougal, George Renick, John Kerr, Wm. Irwin, Robert Steele, Thomas Steele, Adam Holler, Ephraim Doolittle, Joseph Scott, John Edminson, Wm. Rutledge, John Davidson, Wm. Wallace, and Gabriel Coil—22.

After the grand jury was sworn, judge Tod proceeded to deliver a charge to them, of the following purport:

[The charge is unimportant.]

On the following day (Saturday) the court met in the forenoon: the grand jury appeared, and were divided, ten being in favor of finding a bill of indictment and twelve against it. The court then adjourned until three o'clock in the afternoon. In the afternoon Mr. Cassett appeared in court, and was admonished for his conduct, and then discharged.

The court observed, that from the extreme agitation of the public affairs, not only the peace and tranquility of this state was at stake, but that of the whole union. That he had conducted himself in such a manner as to excite suspicion, and that it was highly necessary at the present momentous crisis, to check every act which bore the semblance of hostility towards the peace and tranquility of the state, and that of the United States.

We hope from this example, those concerned in this nefarious scheme will shudder at their situation, and ground those arms of rebellion which they wished to hurl against their own government.

New York, Dec. 27.

The passengers in the Jenny, inform us that the French army entered Berlin on the 21st of October; that the king of Prussia was said to be mortally wounded at the battle of Jena; and that an army of one hundred thousand Russians and Swedes had arrived on the Prussian frontiers.

On the 10th of November, the Jenny was boarded by the ship Atlas, capt. Pym, of 74 guns, then 7 days from Plymouth. Captain P. informed, that all the differences between the United States and Great Britain, had been adjusted.

New York, December 27.

The British packet Diana left Falmouth on the 12th of November, but brought no newspapers later than the first.

We learn verbally, from the captain and passengers, that Lord Morpeth, the English ambassador to the court of Berlin, had arrived in London; that the French army, as we have before stated, entered Berlin on the 21st October; that the Russian army, said to have been on the frontiers, had not formed a junction with the Prussians; and that a report of the recapture of Buenos Ayres by the Spaniards had reached England, but did not obtain credit.

In company with the packet a British expedition sailed from Falmouth, consisting of 4 ships of the line, 2 frigates, a sloop of war, 10 cutters, 23 transports, and 5000 troops, provision for 12 months, and commanded by commodore Stopford and general Crawford, destination unknown. Another secret expedition was fitting out at Ramsgate and Margate.

London, October 29.

We have received accounts from Berlin, of the 18th, stating, that the queen had arrived there on the preceding evening, and again quitted the capital on the 18th. The duke of Brunswick is not killed; he was wounded by a grape shot at the beginning of the battle, in reconnoitring the position of the enemy. The lost in killed and wounded is estimated at from 20,000 to 40,000 men, general Mollendorf, Kalkreuth, Ruchel, Blucher, and Taneuzin, are amongst the number. The battle was fought at Auerstadt. The Prussian army was on its retreat to Magdeburg.

After the battle, the head quarters of the French army were transferred to Leipsic, and the advanced guard had actually taken possession of Dresden.
